

Truman Ports
Dylan Greif
Design for Journalists
4 February 2016

Assignment One

1. *What is design?

- i. Design is the construction or the form of a completed product, as well as the plan created and utilized for the final structure as well. Design can refer to anything from fashion design, to architectural design, to even website and typography.

2. *What is journalism?

- i. Journalism is the gathering of information, facts, sources, and the circulation of these things packaged as news or as something of importance for an audience to read.

3. *What is design for journalists?

- i. Design for journalists is the way in which a writer, or team of designers, enhance a written piece or choose to visually display or represent information. In reference to newspapers and magazines, it encompasses layout, photos, and typography, but in digital print it can include so much more.

4. How did you design this page? Why did you design it this way?

- i. Being a fan of clean, more classic design, I kept this page in a legible font (although not Times New Roman which can be boring at times), and made the header a bit larger to indicate and draw attention to what someone would be reading. This is why I included the questions in a list format (I like lists) and italicized bodily as well. One space exists between each question, because I like I said, I like the clean look that it gives.