

Journalism^{+Design}

What is journalism?

Journalism is the gathering, processing, and dissemination of news information to an audience. The purpose of journalism is to transmit factual information in a way that is easily understood and digested by the masses.

What is design?

Design is the creative plan for an object's or system's appearance and function.

What is design for journalism?

Design for journalism is the blueprint for how a journalistic message or story is conveyed for an intended audience in the best, most efficient medium possible.

How did you design this page?

I designed this page on Microsoft Word using different fonts and colors, and the use of italicize.

Why did you design it this way?

Because I was using Microsoft Word, I tried to design this page as simply as possible because of the limited creative functionality and over-simplicity of this program.
