There's little variety of food that even the variations themselves serve the same thing: chicken with rice or pasta or bread. It's like, you buy a meal and someone looks at it and immediately knows where you got it from.

Although we have a grocery store, I don't have enough time to cook elaborate meals nor do I feel inspired to. It also doesn't help that I'm not a great cook except when it comes to toast, eggs and smoothie bowls.
